

Pennsylvania Association of Professional Soil Scientists

The Pennsylvania Association of Professional Soil Scientists (PAPSS) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to foster the profession of soil classification, mapping, and interpretations, and to increase further dissemination of information concerning soil science as it contributes to the protection of the environment and general human welfare. PAPSS membership consists of professional soil scientists from university and college Agronomy and Environmental Science departments, the United States Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, other governmental agencies, private consulting firms, and county health and planning departments. PAPSS is affiliated with ARCPACS, a Federation of Certifying Boards in Agriculture, Biology, Earth, and Environmental Sciences and is a member of the USCSSA, United States Consortium of Soil Science Associations.

Each member must pass a rigorous screening by the PAPSS Board of Directors and adhere to a professional code of ethics. The minimum qualifications for a professional member include a baccalaureate degree (B.S.) in Soil Science and a minimum of five years of professional experience in soil morphology, classification, and interpretation.

Many regulations in Pennsylvania require the services of a qualified professional soil scientist to provide accurate soil interpretations to support other professional services provided by engineers, geologists and land surveyors. As a result, PAPSS has compiled this registry of PAPSS Professional Soil Scientists who are available to provide soil science consulting services. This listing may be reproduced for further distribution.
